clothing for care

Designed to make dressing quicker and easier for wearer and carer

Front-Fastening Bras and Adaptive Nightwear

Fastening a bra gets more difficult as we get older and for ladies who have arthritis or limited arm movement, getting dressed can be time consuming and painful.

Choose from The Adaptawear Corebra or the Royce Comfi bra - front fastening cotton bras that are designed for gently support and comfort.

If you require flat back opening nightwear see our pretty adaptive nightwear on page 3.

Magnetic Corebra - How to get the perfect fit

Follow our easy guide below to determine the fit you will need. The best way to find out the right bra size is to determine your size by the traditional route of measuring.

Find your bra size

This is under the bust measurement. Measure, in inches, directly under your breasts, ensuring that the tape is firm and level across your back. If this number is even, add 4". If this number is uneven, add 5". This is your bra size.

To find your cup size

Measure around the fullest part of your bust. Again, ensure that the tape is level. This is your 'Over Bust' measurement.

With these two measurements, use the table on the right to determine which Corebra size will provide the best fit.

Finger loops for easy grasping

Corebra - The Magnetic Front-Fastening Bra

Adaptawear's unique Corebra has been designed with extensive input from Occupational Therapists. The Corebra is a comfort bra that offers gentle support, it will not give the same uplift as an underwired bra.

- Magnetic and hook and loop fastenings replace tiny bra hooks
- Front fastening with large, easy-to-grasp finger loops
- No restrictive cups sizes, only soft expandable cotton that moulds to your body shape
- Racer back fit reduce shoulder strain
- Wide adjustable straps
- 93% Cotton 7% elastane
- Not suitable for people with pacemakers
- Available in black and white
